Project: The NRA is playing you Process Book

Brittany Woodhead | GRDS402 Social Design | Prof. Casem | Spring 2023

The design strategy behind this project will be a CTA (call to action) campaign that will encourage an immediate response from young voters ranging from 18-29. Research shows that this demographic has the potential to transform our current policies and regulations on this issue if they can be motivated enough to take social action. In order to reach this audience a strong online presence is imperative. I intend to achieve this goal by creating a mission orientated platform that is both informative and interactive through a website and social media promotion. The website will focus on the senators who take the most campaign donations from the NRA in order to control gun legislation and policies despite rising mass shootings in America and calls for action from voters and victims. The visual strategy is to demonstrate the corruption and dangers presented by the gun lobbyist and how they use blood money to negotiate lives for profit.

BRIEF

The NRA & Gun Violence in America

Overview of Topic

Gun violence in America is a serious problem with negative consequences that impacts a large portion of the population and is a direct threat to the youth of our nation. A majority of registered voters recognize this as a significant problem that needs to be addressed through stricter gun laws, assault rifle bans and legislation on both a state and federal level. However, the National Rifle Association (NRA), the largest gun-owners' organization in the US, lobbies against gun-control laws.

In each of the last three years, there have been more than 600 mass shootings, almost two a day on average. Just in 2023 alone there have been 131 mass shootings in America in which four or more people were injured or killed. The US ratio of 120.5 firearms per 100 residents, up from 88 per 100 in 2011, far surpasses that of other countries around the world. Firearms recently became the number one cause of death for children in the United States, surpassing motor vehicle deaths and those caused by other injuries. A majority of Americans are in favor of gun control. 57% of Americans surveyed said they wanted stricter gun laws although this fell last year according to polling by Gallup. 32% said the laws should remain the same, while 10% of people surveyed said they should be "made less strict". Despite years of financial woes and internal strife, the NRA remains the most powerful gun lobby in the United States, with a substantial budget to influence members of Congress on gun policy. Over the last several election cycles, it, and other organizations, have consistently spent more on pro-gun rights messaging than their rivals in the gun control lobby.

Project Goals & Proposal

The design strategy behind this project will be a CTA (call to action) campaign that will encourage an immediate response from young voters ranging from 18-29. Research shows that this demographic has the potential to transform our current policies and regulations on this issue if they can be motivated enough to take social action. In order to reach this audience a strong online presence is imperative. I intend to achieve this goal by creating a mission orientated platform that is both informative and interactive through a website and social media promotion. The visual design strategy I have in mind for this campaign is cropped large scale black and white photographic images of politicians holding guns, the aftermath of mass shootings and victims of gun violence juxtaposed with aphorisms that call out the blatant absurdity and corruption within our government. Example: While you deliberate bodies accumulate.

Target Audience

Historically youth voters ages 18-29 have had the lowest voter turnout when participating in national and local elections. Currently there are 23 million eligible Gen Z voters in America and this large but historically inactive voting demographic is a challenging yet necessary group of voters to connect with on this issue.

Deliverables

- Website: 3 content rich pages designed to show full-length and full-size mockups.
- Social Media: 3 carousels of 3+ screens each.

Gun violence is a fixture in American life - but the issue is a highly political one, pitting gun control advocates against people who are fiercely protective of their right to bear arms.

Mass shootings on the rise

There have been more than 130 mass shootings across the US so far this year, including the attack at a school in Nashville, in which three children and three adults were killed. Figures from the Gun Violence Archive - a non-profit research database - show that the number of mass shootings has gone up significantly in recent years. In each of the last three years, there have been more than 600 mass shootings, almost two a day on average. While the US does not have a single definition for "mass shootings", the Gun Violence Archive defines a mass shooting as an incident in which four or more people are injured or killed. Their figures include shootings that happen in homes and in public places. The deadliest such attack, in Las Vegas in 2017, killed more than 50 people and left 500 wounded. The vast majority of mass shootings, however, leave fewer than 10 people dead.

How do US gun deaths break down?

48,830 people died from gun-related injuries in the US during 2021, according to the latest data from the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). That's nearly an 8% increase from 2020, which was a record-breaking year for firearm deaths. While mass shootings and gun murders (homicides) generally garner much media attention, more than half of the total in 2021 were suicides. That year, more than 20,000 deaths were homicides, according to the CDC. Data shows more than 50 people are killed each day by a firearm in the US. That's a significantly larger proportion of homicides than is the case in Canada, Australia, England and Wales, and many other countries.

How many guns are there in the US?

While calculating the number of guns in private hands around the world is difficult, the latest figures from the Small Arms Survey - a Swiss-based research project - estimated that there were 390 million guns in circulation in the US in 2018. The US ratio of 120.5 firearms per 100 residents, up from 88 per 100 in 2011, far surpasses that of other countries around the world. More recent data from the US suggests that gun ownership grew significantly over the last few years. A study, published by the Annals of Internal Medicine in February, found that 7.5 million US adults became new gun owners between January 2019 and April 2021. This, in turn, exposed 11 million people to firearms in their homes, including 5 million children. About half of new gun owners in that time period were women, while 40% were either black or Hispanic.

Who supports gun control?

A majority of Americans are in favor of gun control. 57% of Americans surveyed said they wanted stricter gun laws - although this fell last year - according to polling by Gallup. 32% said the laws should remain the same, while 10% of people surveyed said they should be "made less strict".

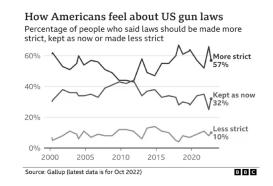

The issue is extremely divisive, falling largely along party lines. "Democrats are nearly unanimous in their support for stricter gun laws," another Gallup study noted, with nearly 91% in favor of stricter gun laws. Only 24% Republicans, on the other hand, agreed with the same statement, along with 45% of independent voters. Some states have taken steps to ban or strictly regulate ownership of assault weapons. Laws vary by state but California, for example, has banned ownership of assault weapons with limited exceptions. Some controls are widely supported by people across the political divide - such as restrictions governing the sale of guns to people who are mentally ill or on "watch" lists.

Who opposes gun control?

Despite years of financial woes and internal strife, the National Rifle Association (NRA) remains the most powerful gun lobby in the United States, with a substantial budget to influence members of Congress on gun policy. Over the last several election cycles, it, and other organizations, have consistently spent more on pro-gun rights messaging than their rivals in the gun control lobby.

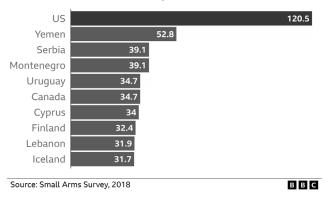

A number of states have also gone as far as to largely eliminate restrictions on who can carry a gun. In June 2021, for example, Texas Governor Greg Abbott signed into law a "permit less carry bill" that allows the state's residents to carry handguns without a license or training. Similarly, in April last year Georgia became the 25th in the nation to eliminate the need for a permit to conceal or openly carry a firearm. The law means any citizen of that state has the right to carry a firearm without a license or a permit. The law was backed by the NRA, and leaders within the organization called the move "a monumental moment for the Second Amendment".

WHICH SENATORS HAVE BENEFITTED THE MOST FROM NRA MONEY?

The majority of Americans support stronger gun laws — laws that are proven to reduce deaths. But in 2019, the NRA spent $3.22 million to benefit the political campaigns of senators who oppose gun safety legislation. In 2020, they spent $2.20 million. These senators refuse to support common-sense gun reform, like expanding Brady Background Checks and banning assault weapons.

Senators who have benefitted the most from the NRA's political spending throughout their entire political careers, along with the average number of gun deaths per year in their state. Mitch McConnell comes in at #14, having received more than $1.2 million in direct donations, independent expenditures, and other patronages over his career.

They will be arranged as miniature puppets cradling guns as they so often do. As the user scrolls down the website it will show a list of every senate member who has taken campaign donations from the NRA along with the amount recieved and the number of mass shootings in the state being represented by that senate member. The social media carousel will use a similar collage style with a direct call to action that encourages the viewer to stay informed and get out and vote.
